Getting a GSA started

The first rule of organizing: If you feed them, they will come...

Find an advisor who believes in what you are doing

Choose a time and place to hold your meetings

ADVERTISE EVERYWHERE! Use posters, announcements, etc.

Inform supportive teachers, school social workers and guidance counselors, etc.

Come up with ideas for the first two or three meetings to get things started

Activities and Change Projects for GSA Meetings

Starting and Stopping:
Every meeting should start with an icebreaker and end with a chance for everyone to give feedback

Sample Ground Rules:
One mic...
No dissing....
Elmo (Enough let’s move on)...
Step up, step back
No side conversations

Some Meeting Topics:
Gender... What makes a man a man; a woman a woman...
LGBT history... Group topics (put in a hat and people draw one out)... PRIDE... Coming out as LGBT or an ally... dealing with homo/bi/transphobia...

Some Activity Ideas:
Watch a LGBT film... Bring in outside speakers... Plan theme dances... Make safe zone stickers or posters... Participate in the Day of Silence (April) or National Coming Out Day (October) or No Name Calling Week (January)... Plan a GSA summit or other joint activity with nearby schools... Make a movie... Raise money to come to the True Colors conference in March... Have a bring a friend day... role play ways of interrupting intolerance...

Mentor middle school students

Meet with your local, state and/or federal representatives

Mobilize parents to support your project... Set up a social media page to support an action for change

Create a petition... Update or challenge school policies related to orientation, gender, dress codes... Write letters to the editor for your school, community or local newspapers

Put up flyers and posters during LGBT history month (October), highlighting LGBT African Americans during Black History month (February); LBT women during women’s history (March); Latino/a LGBT folks during Hispanic Heritage month (September) or transgender folks during the National Day of Remembrance (November)

Hold a Rally... Write and perform a skit for an assembly or faculty meeting

Ally for another social justice issue and join in their actions: immigration rights; anti-racism; universal health care, etc.

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Don’t TALK TOO much</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Make sure everyone has a chance to talk at every meeting</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Use a ‘check-out’ at the end of every meeting: What worked, what didn’t work for you about the meeting; What is one thing you learned today that you can use; What was your favorite part of the meeting? Etc.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Allow some (but not too much) time for people to socialize at every meeting</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Have the group come up with a word that you can use when someone is monopolizing the conversation or taking you off topic</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Remind the group about your chosen ground rules at every meeting to help new people fit in</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Talk about how to resolve a conflict within the group BEFORE it happens</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Break up cliques and make that every new person feels welcome and included</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ask Questions. Let the group decide and be responsible for its own success</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Have an agenda for every meeting but be flexible in how you follow it.</td>

The Internet is both a great place to hang and a perfect place to get hurt – especially if you can’t tell anyone who you are talking to or why.

The Internet is a great source of support for LGBT teens. For some, it is may be the only support. It’s a place where you can find and make friends, find acceptance and be yourselves, get advice, read magazines, talk to friends, form activist groups and more. Unfortunately, not everyone you meet on the ‘net’ has such innocent intentions. Sometimes, you can become the perfect ‘prey’ – especially if you would be afraid to tell your parents if something happened because it would mean coming out to them.

People are not always who or what they say they are. Appearances can be deceiving and people may try to talk you into doing things you might feel badly about later. Trust your instincts. If you catch someone in one lie, chances are there are others. Be careful how much information you provide about yourself in your profile.

Privacy matters. Treat everything you write on the internet as if everyone – and their mother – can see it. Chances are, they can.

Maintain your privacy. Do not give out or post your name, address, phone number, what school you go to, or any other private information. Keep in mind that all information on the internet is available to everyone. Computers log every website you visit. Keep this in mind especially on public access computers. Think before you click. Before posting something online, check and make sure it says what you wanted it to say, can’t be misconstrued and is being posted at the right place or sent to the right person. Think about the person on the other side. Many cyber-wars start with a careless message.

Be careful if you decide to meet. It can be a BAD idea to meet face-to-face with someone you only know on-line. Meet in a public place a few times first, before deciding to go to a more private location. Always tell someone where and with whom you are going! Make sure you use your own or public transportation in case things don’t go as you planned and you want to make an earlier exit.

Make sure you have a good firewall and an automatically updated anti-virus program installed on your computer. While you’re at it, get a good spyware or adware blocker too. Be careful about downloading or opening files sent to you, even from people you know. Many viruses masquerade as someone you know. Hacking tools and programs (such as Trojan horses) can give someone a backdoor to your computer, all your passwords and banking information.

Don’t be a victim of a "phishing" scheme. Phishing is when an ID thief sends millions of emails or IMs pretending to be your bank, or online service, like PayPal. They look real and try to scare you into reacting without thinking. They claim that someone has broken into your account, or that changes were made to your account. They ask you to login using the link in the email. The link takes you to their site, but you think you’re at your bank’s site. You type in your login and password. A page pops up telling you that your account is secure and thanking you. Your real account is accessed and emptied within minutes.

You have the right to expect respect. If something happens to you that you think is harassment, assault or rape, then you need to take action. Tell someone you trust. Call the police. Call a hotline. You deserve respect and care.

Protect your computer

Remember your body is yours and yours alone. You have a right to stop things whenever you feel uncomfortable – even if the other person doesn’t want to. You have the right to say NO! Trust Your Instincts. If you feel unsafe, you probably are. Act on your feelings and get out.

Imagine...

For about the cost of a single specialty drink each month, you could give a kid a scholarship to the True Colors conference ...

My younger sister came out to me and a few of her friends, and she gets made fun of and judged when she’s seen with her girlfriend. I feel like going to True Colors would show her that I support her and I will always be there for her, no matter what.

True Colors to me means a place of love, a place of hope, happiness, enlightenment, friendship, courage, and every aspect of humanity that is nothing but good.

When I went to True Colors last year it was one of the best experiences of my life. I met so many amazing people, and felt totally accepted for who I am and comfortable in my own skin. It was great to be surrounded by love and not feel judged.

Issues:

- A number of studies have suggested that LGBT youth have higher rates of substance use, including tobacco, alcohol and illicit drugs than their heterosexual peers.
- In general, gay men appear to exhibit little elevated risk for alcohol abuse or heavy drinking relative to heterosexual men. The rates of drinking for gay men tend to remain constant over the life cycle; however, while the rates for heterosexual men tend to decrease as they age. Recent studies examining trends in drinking have reported decreases in drinking and alcohol related problems with gay men.
- Lesbians appear to be at higher risk for heavier drinking and for drinking related problems than heterosexual women in all age categories. The highest rates were reported by lesbians aged 55 or older, who were least open about their sexual orientation and least connected to the lesbian community.
- Lesbians are more likely to currently use marijuana than any other illicit drug. Gay men are more likely to use club drugs, inhalants, stimulants and sedatives.

Risk Factors:

- The role of the "gay bar" as a social vehicle; Fewer peer, family and societal supports; Internalized homophobia
- Socioeconomic and psychosocial conditions associated with minority status; for youth, higher risk of factors which are associated with drug use: truancy; school drop out; smoking, depression, etc
- Stresses related to identity formation and coming out
- Cigarette smoking (often considered a gateway drug) is significantly higher among sexual minority youth and lesbian women than in heterosexuals

Assessment and Treatment Issues:

- Clients usually present with global reports of anxiety or depression or with specific problems in one or more life areas that are the result of drug or alcohol abuse. Few specific instruments exist to assess the impact of orientation, or even to include orientation in the process. Therefore all assessments must include a thorough (current and past) psychosexual history
- Clinicians must be able to identify and assess which stage of the coming out process their clients are in. This is significant because it directly impacts the therapeutic process and can help identity appropriate interventions
- Culturally competent treatment might include assisting the client in increased self-awareness and acceptance as a sexual or gender minority as well as an exploration of coping strategies to assist with discrimination and rejection from society, peers, family of origin and others, along with the stresses of recovery. For example, if alcohol or drugs were used to conceal inner conflict related to orientation, then it will be essential to address those issues in order to alleviate guilt, shame, self-hatred, etc
- Does the treatment environment include and affirm the client’s (often) non-traditional family networks and support systems? Identification and recognition of a ‘chosen’ family support system are highly beneficial for the continuance of recovery. What resources exist within the LGBT community to support sobriety?
- Does the treatment environment affirm LGBT clients? Are intake, assessment and other forms, inclusive of LGBT lives and identities? To what extent is the client able to be “out” in in-patient, day treatment and other groups?

How to be an Ally to Trans Youth

Ask Me: What do you hope for in an ally? When would you like to me stand up for you? When do you prefer to stand up for yourself – or not make a scene?

Don’t assume that passing means success and not passing means failure. It is not every transperson’s goal to conform to gender stereotypes.

Don’t second guess what gender someone ‘really’ is. It is disrespectful. Remember that birth sex and anatomy are not always the same as gender.

Take me seriously. Take my gender identity and expression seriously. If you are not sure what pronoun to use, ask – and then use it correctly.

Don’t assume that all transgender people are heterosexual – or that we are not.

Don’t assume that transgender people are sex-workers. Although some of us engage in survival sex because our unemployment rates are close to 70%, don’t assume that all transgender people are sex workers, or that that we are sex workers because we have no other choice.

Don’t out me! You could put me in danger by outing me without my consent. ALWAYS ask.

Non-traditional gender expressions are valid. Some transgender youth’s ideal is to be gender-fluid, or androgynous.

Some transgender folks conform to gender norms for our chosen gender – hypermasculine or hyperfeminine behavior. Encourage youth to understand that while this is one option, it is not necessary to be successful in their chosen gender.

Do NOT out me! You could put me in danger by outing me without my consent. ALWAYS ask.

Years of hostility and abuse can take a toll on youth. Many trans youth have social and emotional difficulties resulting from this. Many trans youth develop unhealthy coping mechanisms such as substance abuse, eating disorders, self-harm, etc. Be aware of the connection. Be sensitive when dealing with us.

Educate yourself on the issues – it is not a transgender person’s job to educate YOU – especially if you are in a helping or professional position.

Transgender people can and do lead healthy sexual lives. Many of us have fulfilling sex lives, whether that means respectful, loving long-term relationships, or satisfying short encounters. There are plenty of people, transgender or non-transgender, who find us desirable.

Instead of asking a transgender client how their birth families will react, ask us what support systems we have in place. Help us figure out what they will do if these people react negatively.

Do not ask what our former names were. If we have to disclose for legal reasons, keep it confidential and continue to use our chosen names and pronouns.

Don’t make assumptions about religion. Many transfolks belong to religious traditions that support our identity and contributions; for others spirituality may not be important to us.

Educate yourself on the issues – it is not a transgender person’s job to educate YOU – especially if you are in a helping or professional position.

The majority of transgender people experience body dysphoria; in other words, we are extremely uncomfortable with our bodies – some might go as far as to say we are in the “wrong body”. Be aware of this, and try to be sensitive and respectful.

Doctors: Avoid unnecessary nudity, let your patients get dressed as soon as possible. When discussing gendered body parts with a trans person, ask us what terms we use to refer to our bodies – and then use those terms. (What you might call a penis, a transwoman may call her clitoris. A transman may refer to his genitals as his “bits” or “junk”, or his breasts as his “chest” or “pecs”.) Trans Clients Speak is an excellent DVD: www.transclientsspeak.blogspot.com
On the Federal Level

Title VII (protection on the basis of gender): In the 1989 case of Price-Waterhouse v. Hopkins, 490 U.S. 228 (1989), the United States Supreme Court held that “having specific expectations that a person will manifest certain behavior based upon his or her gender is not only conceptually outmoded sexual stereotyping, but also an unlawful form of sex discrimination.” The Court decided that “sex” under Title VII encompasses both sex and gender. These protections were extended in Schwenk v. Hartford, 204 F.3d 1187 (9th Cir. 2000), a case involving sexual harassment and assault by a prison guard against the transgender plaintiff. The Ninth Circuit concluded that “discrimination because one fails to act in the way expected of a man or a woman is forbidden under Title VII,” and that a transgender person who is targeted on this basis is entitled to protection.

Title IX (protection on the basis of orientation, sex and gender): In March of 1997, a policy paper was issued that indicated that Title IX (a statute which prohibits sexual and gender discrimination) can be interpreted to include a prohibition against sexual harassment on the basis of orientation. That means that if a sexual minority student is sexually harassed (harassment with a sexual nature or overtone), and the school does not make significant efforts to overcome and prevent this harassment, the school has the potential to lose their federal funding! In addition, Title IX of the federal Education Amendment Acts of 1972 prohibits sex discrimination in any education program or activity that receives federal funding, such as public elementary schools. 20 U.S.C. § 1681 et seq. As a result, prohibited discrimination includes that which is based on not only sex, but also stereotypical ideas of gender-appropriate male or female behavior and expression, including clothing choice. A school may not discriminate against students or exclude them from any aspect of school-based activities or opportunities based on that student’s gender identity or expression. If an official knew of the misconduct and, acting with deliberate indifference, failed to stop the misconduct, the school administration may be held liable under Title VII for the harassment and its effects. See, e.g., Montgomery v. Independent Sch. Dist. No. 709, 2000 WL 1233063 (D. Minn. 2000); Miles v. New York Univ., 979 F. Supp. 248 (S.D.N.Y. 1997). In 2011, The Connecticut Commission on Human Rights and Opportunities (CHRO) has just sent a letter to all Connecticut schools on the issue of bullying and harassment. This letter follows an earlier letter sent by the USDOE Office for Civil Rights (OCR). Both our state civil rights agency and the federal OCR have dramatically stepped up their efforts to protect students being bullied and harassed. www.sde.ct.gov/sde/bullyingandharassment

Constitutional Rights: The Constitution guarantees the right to equal protection. In the summer of 1997, this constitutional law was used to hold 3 school principals personally liable (in the amount of $800,000) for their failure to protect Jamie Nabozny from harassment based upon his sexual orientation as a student in a Wisconsin public school.

Equal Access Law: Congress passed legislation originally designed to allow religious groups to meet in the schools as a “club”. Because legislation must be neutral and can not discriminate, the law broadly covers any “club” which allows anyone to join, has a non-discriminatory membership criteria, and meets the rules of the school, including Gay/Straight Alliances.

On the State Level

Anti-Bullying Statutes: PA 08-160 requires schools to develop and implement policies to address bullying

“Gay Rights Law” PA 91-58u (CGS 46a-81a / CGS 46a-60): CT is one of about 20 states that has an anti-discrimination law which makes it illegal to discriminate on the basis of sexual orientation. Although this law is specific to housing and employment, many believe that schools are covered under the public accommodation clause.

Student Bill of Rights PA 97-247 Sec 6 (CGS 10-15c): Connecticut is one of about 12 states to amend their educational statutes to include sexual orientation/gender identity and expression protected categories

Hate Crimes Law (CGS 53a-181b / CGS 53a-40a): CT is one of more than 21 states that also has Hate Crimes legislation which includes sexual orientation and gender identity and expression and provides additional penalties for crimes committed out of “hate” and prejudice.

Tort Laws: Personal Injury Lawsuits allow a remedy for hurt and can be available to address all forms of bigotry in the school. Professional liability insurance does not cover discrimination (since it is illegal).

Licensing Statutes: These statutes always include ethics clauses that require non-discrimination. Failure to meet these standards can result in a teacher’s, guidance counselor’s or other licensed professional’s loss of license.

Individual School District Policies: Many state school districts (for example, Coventry, Hartford, New Haven, Stratford, Westport and others) followed the example of the National Association of State Boards of Education, the National Association of Local Boards of Education, NEA, and others by adding sexual orientation to their policies.
Steps for Filing a School Discrimination Complaint

Discrimination in schools based on sexual orientation is a violation of federal law - Title IX, and CT State Law - 10-15c. There have been over fifteen cases nationwide that have been brought against school districts for failing to protect students from discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation. People may file a complaint in a number of ways and can consider any or all of the following:

File a complaint with the school system under Title IX, through your Title IX Coordinator.
To find out who your District Title IX Coordinator is, go to the CT State Department of Education website

File a complaint with the principal under 10-15c (see legal rights on previous page)

Remember that anyone can file for the revocation of a teacher's certification - call Connecticut State Department of Education

Call DCF (Dept of Children & Families) if child abuse is suspected - (800) 842-2288

Use Section 1983 of federal law as a legal tool: “… gay students who face peer harassment may rely on federal law, namely 28 U.S.C. § 1983 [Section 1983], to sue school officials who turn a blind eye to harassment. When a school official knowingly allows the harassment of a gay student to continue, that school official violates the student’s right to equal protection under the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution.28 (From … PERSONAL LIABILITY OF SCHOOL OFFICIALS UNDER § 1983 WHO IGNORE PEER HARASSMENT OF GAY STUDENTS by JEFFREY I. BEDELL* UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS LAW REVIEW [Vol. 2003] 9/9/2003)

Did you know? Title IX requires that the District Title IX Coordinator’s name, title, address and phone number must be published and posted. The school districts harassment policy, complaint process, grievance procedure must be made available to staff, students and parents. The school’s non-discrimination policy must be included in any and all official school publications.

File with the Office for Civil Rights in Boston by calling 1-617-223-9662

File with the CT Commission on Human Rights and Opportunities (800) 477-5737/(860) 541-3400

Making a Difference: Immediate Action Steps

Individual Action Steps:

- When you hear MEAN, INTERVENE! Every time & every where

  - Speak up, speak out (understanding and respecting the courage that this takes). Explore your own assumptions, recognizing the source of some of your thoughts and beliefs and the impact of these beliefs on your works with LGBT youth and families.

  - Identify and use opportunities to contradict negative messages. Take advantage of “teachable moments”. Stop heterosexist jokes or remarks. Speak up in defense and support of LGBT clients, students and staff. Learn about the connections between anti-LGBT bias and racism, sexism, classism, etc.

  - Understand issues that may be unique to LGBT youth such as the fear of discovery; rejection and social isolation; pressure to conform to heterosexuality; potential harassment and violence; alcohol and drug abuse; suicide risks, etc.

  - Look for a support network of advocates. Listen and learn from LGBT people. Attend LGBT events, films, workshops, pride marches, PGLAG meetings, etc.

  - Examine your use of language: Do your questions and conversations assume heterosexuality of the individual and his/her parents or family? Never ‘out’ a student, client or family.

  - Educate others by sponsoring events, panels or workshops; intervene by providing accurate information upon hearing slurs or myths; interrupt anti-LGBT jokes, assumptions; write letters to the editor; etc.

- Learn about language, laws, policies, political issues and pre-conceived notions that affect the rights and experiences of LGBT people

- Understand that questioning, exploration, and fluidity is normal for adolescents

- Challenge your pre-conceived ideas of what is good for youth and children in terms of placements, family structure and relationships. Educate yourself about sexuality and gender

- Consider carefully what you place into youth’s records since those records are going to follow them throughout the system

- Use supervision if you are struggling to balance your personal views with your professional responsibilities or if you want to ‘check out’ your assessment or recommendations for hidden biases. (Note that supervision can be provided by your supervisor OR by a trusted peer, mentor, or other knowledgeable support person in your life)

- Assess and educate existing and potential foster homes and other residential settings for their openness, comfort level, attitudes and policies regarding sexual orientation and gender identity of youth in their care

Environmental Action Steps:

You may want to implement some of the following suggestions as appropriate to your setting:

- Wear a button/sticker that promotes awareness
- Use magnets or other posted symbols
- Assess current posters and add awareness posters that include LGBT examples
- Identify and use opportunities to integrate LGBT examples in curriculum, lesson plans, intake and other forms, interviews and other client interactions.
- Visible non-discrimination statement that explicitly includes orientation and gender identity/expression
- Provide at least one universal, gender inclusive or gender neutral ‘restroom’ so that people are not faced with the issue of choosing the ‘right’ or ‘wrong’ bathroom
- Providing LGBTI specific media such as this resource guide, local or national magazines or newsletters. Post appropriate resource information and activities
Agency Level Action Steps:

Review Intake and other forms for inclusive language: Filling out intake forms gives students or clients their first, and most important, impressions of the extent to which their identity and families systems are recognized and affirmed. Review your forms for inclusive language on sex, gender, relationship status, and family structures. Remember that Connecticut now has Civil Marriage which is a legal relationship between people and impacts next of kin, medical decision making, etc. In addition, if your practice is likely to include transgender and intersex people, additional training about their unique health, mental health and other concerns is critical to effective, competent service delivery.

- When discussing sexual history, it is very important to reflect client language and terminology about their partners and their behavior. Many people do not define themselves through a sexual identity label, yet may have sex with persons of their same sex or gender, or with more than one sex. If you identity an individual as ‘gay’ when they don’t self-identify in that way, you can damage rapport and trust. Respect transgender patients by using appropriate pronouns for their gender expression. If you are unsure, ask is a gentle, respectful way.
- If you need to perform a physical exam, remember that some transgender people are uncomfortable in their current bodies
- When talking about sexual or relationship partners, use gender-neutral language such as ‘partner(s)’ or significant other(s). Ask open-ended questions and don’t assume the gender of a client’s partner(s) or sexual behaviors. Don’t assume that current and past behaviors are the same. Look for ways in which stereotypes can impact the questions you ask and don’t ask (for example, not asking a gay man about children; or not asking a woman who identifies as lesbian about STI risks).
- Within DCF, many forms (such as potential foster parent interview forms) have been updated to include gender-neutral language. Practice using that language until you are comfortable with it. If the forms are not neutral, practice asking the question in a way that is.
- Ask violence screening questions in a gender neutral way: have you been physically or sexually hurt (are you currently being hurt, have you ever experienced being hurt) by someone you love or by a stranger? Have you ever been sexually assaulted or raped?
- Set and consistently enforce clear rules of behavior that respect and protect diversity; Encourage respectful discussion and debate. (Contact Connecticut Women’s Education And Legal Fund or CT chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union or other agencies for pamphlets on the difference between ‘free speech’ and ‘hate language’.)

Create and enforce clear policies. For sample policies, contact The American Academy of Pediatrics; The American Medical Association; The American Psychiatric Association; the National Association of Social Workers; Child Welfare League of America; the National Education Association; The American Federation of Teachers; The American Bar Association; The American School Counselor Association; the American School Health Association; and others with inclusive policies (or see Gay Lesbian Straight Education Network (GLSEN/CT’s) “Tackling Gay Issues in School” for samples of some of the above.)

Special thanks to participants in True Colors Workshops, Rainbow Center at UCONN; Gay & Lesbian Medical Association (www.glma.org) and PFLAG Hartford for many of these ideas!

A Short (and incomplete) LGBT History

1969: Angered by police harassment of patrons of the Stonewall Inn, LGBT residents in the area fight back during a raid, initiating several days of violence, called the “Stonewall Riots”. Many consider this event as the “start” of the modern LGBT rights movement in America. Also in 1969, CT became only the 2nd state to repeal its sodomy laws

1973: The American Psychiatric Association votes to remove homosexuality from its list of “illnesses”, calls for the decriminalization of homosexuality and the passage of civil rights protections for gays and lesbians

1974: The National Education Association adds sexual orientation to its non-discrimination policies and calls for all other professional educational associations to do the same

1975: The American Psychological Association asks its members to remove the stigma of mental illness from gays and lesbians

1982: Wisconsin becomes the first state to ban employment discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation. Today, 20 states plus the District of Colombia, have similar legislation. The states are WI (1982); MA (1989); CT and HI (1991); CA, NJ, and VT (1992); MN (1993); RI (1995); NV (1997); NY (1999); MD (2001); VT (2002); NM (2003); IL (2005); ME (2005), WA (2006); IA, OR, CO (2007).

1983: The American Academy of Pediatrics calls on its constituents to serve all youths struggling with their sexual identity

1986: In a 5-4 vote, the Supreme Court upholds the sodomy laws of the state of Georgia in the Bowers v. Hardwick decision. As a result, government continued to have the right to arrest consenting adults having sex in the privacy of their own homes in 24 states. Georgia overturned its sodomy statutes in 1999

1986: In CA, Becky Smith & Annie Afleck became the first lesbian couple in the US to be granted legal, joint adoption of a child.

1988: The National Education Association adopts a resolution calling for every school district to provide counseling for students struggling with their sexual orientation

1989: Denmark becomes the first nation to legalize gay unions (a step short of same sex marriage); Norway allows same-sex marriage in 1993. Canada recently passed similar legislation. Currently, seven US states plus the DC allow Same-Sex Marriage or Civil Unions (MA, CT, IA, VT, NY, IL, RI). Several others recognize same-sex marriages from other states.

1990: The Hate Crimes Statistics Act becomes the 1st federal law to include ‘sexual orientation’ – for counting purposes only.

1991: The American School Health Association passes a resolution that calls for the end of discrimination against gay and lesbian youths and outlines a series of steps to assist these adolescents in schools

1993: MA becomes the first state to ban discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation against public high school students.

1997: CT adds sexual orientation to the Student Bill of Rights

2000: Vermont makes history by creating a legal same sex relationship called ‘Civil Unions’, which provide same sex couples in Vermont with legal rights and responsibilities similar to married couples. These rights are not portable from state to state in the way that marriage rights are – and do not include the more than 1,000 federal rights or responsibilities of marriage

2000: CT passes co-parent legislation allowing both same sex and unmarried opposite sex couples to adopt children. Currently, more than 20 states allow same sex co-parent adoptions; CT, VT & NJ are the only three to address it by statute

2002: CT Activists continue to lobby for same sex marriage rights. There are 588 Statutes in CT which reference civil marriage-related rights and responsibilities but which are provided only within the confines of legal marriage

2003/2004: California passes an inclusive Domestic Partnership Law, similar to Vermont’s Civil Unions; Two Provinces in Canada join the Netherlands and Belgium as countries that allow same-sex marriage. New Mexico becomes the first state to pass both hate crimes and nondiscrimination bills with gender identity in both bills. California passes an employment anti-discrimination law that includes Gender Identity and Expression. MA courts legalize same sex marriage

2004: 8 couples in CT file a lawsuit claiming that CT’s current exclusion of same-sex couples from civil marriage is discriminatory. CT State Department of Children and Families (DCF) passes non-discrimination language that includes both sexual orientation and gender identity and expression. Eleven states pass constitutional amendments to prevent same sex marriage bringing the total to approximately 40

2005: CT passes Civil Union Legislation, becoming the first state in the Union to pass legislation without Judicial Mandate

2008: The CT Supreme Court rules in favor of the plaintiffs in Kerrigan v. The State of Connecticut legalizes gay marriage. Proposition eight passes in CA and rescinds the right to marry. In 2013, the Obama Administration filed a brief with the Supreme Court supporting the reinstatement of the right to marry in California.

2009: Congress passes the Matthew Shepard and James Byrd, Jr. Hate Crimes Prevention Act, the first Federal Legislation to include protections for LGBT people.

2011: HB 6599 is passed and Connecticut becomes the 14th State to include Gender Identity and Expression in its Civil Rights Statutes. MA passes gender identity and expression in the next legislative session to become state # 15. MA followed shortly after. CA, CT, HI, IL, MN, NM, RI, ME, NJ, WA, OR, IA, VT, CO & MA. 16 states include some protections by court action
Sexual Minority Youth: Risk Factors

Although support continues to grow, too many continue to face the risks associated with social isolation and a stigmatized identity. Some sexual and gender minority youth continue to experience a lack of support across critical areas of their lives.

Lack of Family Support

- “Higher rates of family rejection were significantly associated with poorer health outcomes. Lesbian, gay, and bisexual young adults who reported higher levels of family rejection during adolescence were 8.4 times more likely to report having attempted suicide, 5.9 times more likely to report high levels of depression, 3.4 times more likely to use illegal drugs, and 3.4 times more likely to report having engaged in unprotected sexual intercourse compared with peers from families that reported no or low levels of family rejection. Latino men reported the highest number of negative family reactions to their sexual orientation in adolescence.” (Ryan, et al, 2009)

- A number of studies of homeless youth reveal that LGBT youth leave home more often, experience higher levels of physical victimization, substance abuse and depression than their heterosexual counterparts (Cochran, et al, May 2002). Transgender youth in particular have been shown to have a higher rate of parental abuse. (Invik, Mills, McCreary, 2005)

- There has been a re-emergence of conversion therapy as well as the linkage of inappropriate parenting practices and the assignment of developmental infirmity to homosexuality from some US based National Organizations. (Children and Society, Vol. 17. 2003. pp 374-385)

- A study (Nocera, L., 2000) of child welfare workers in RI regarding beliefs, attitudes and training needs surrounding LGBT youth in out-of-home care revealed that 33% had beliefs that supported negative stereotypes and myths about LGBT people; 41% said they would not place a child in an LGBT household, and 45% reported no knowledge of LGBT support services for the teens on their caseloads.

Negative School Experiences

- There is little training, education or support for students or helping professionals. A 2004 National School Assessment commissioned by Parents, Families and Friends of Lesbians and Gays indicated that 95% of school counseling services had little or no gay, lesbian, or bisexual resources and 99% had little or no transgender resources; 70% had no training for educators or staff on how to stop GLBT bullying while 92% had no training for students; 84% had little or no resources for parents about GLBT issues; 59% did not include gay, lesbian, or bisexual students in their harassment or nondiscrimination policies and 75% did not include gender identity or expression.

- 2011 GLSEN Survey found that many LGBT youth feel unsafe, harassed and victimized at school leading to higher rates of truancy; lower self-esteem; lower GPAs and less feeling of connectedness. More than half did not report their harassment or assault and more than a third who did report, said that school staff did nothing in response. In addition, the report confirms that school safety affects school success. Youth who felt unsafe or were harassed were more than twice as likely to report that they did not plan to pursue any post-college education.

- A 2009 Survey of Schools of Social Work indicated that although schools reported a growing proficiency in educating new social workers regarding sexual orientation in adults, few programs included the needs of youth. In addition, fewer than 3% offered any training, policies or other inclusive recognition of the needs of transgender youth and clients.

Few Opportunities for Social Interactions with LGBT peers

- In a 2007 study on LGBT youth in Philadelphia “Youth … express a need for social connections to other LGBT youth like themselves. Even youth who are well-supported by friends, families, and other structures need this type of community interaction. Youth with fewer supports and greater challenges need these connections all the more.”

- “…social well-being, as a measure of positive mental health, is an important yet neglected aspect of LGB mental health” (Kertsner, Meyer, Frost and Srittatt, 2009). Specifically, these researchers found that connectedness to the LGB community may be a particularly important coping resource.

- Although pockets of support exist within some communities of faith, many churches, synagogues and clergy continue to condemn and ostracize sexual and gender minority youth and adults in a “soul-wounding experience that (asks) them to choose between their God, their spiritual connection, and their own integrity.” (Ellen Bass)
None of the ‘parade of horribles’ listed above are either set in stone or experienced by all LGBT youth. In fact, many of these risk factors can be ameliorated when youth receive support in one or more areas of their lives. Remove the social isolation and stigma, and much of the emotional distress is relieved. Specific protective factors include:

- Family Response. The results of a multi-year, mixed methods study conducted by Caitlin Ryan and her team for the Family Acceptance Project™, at the Cesar E. Chavez Institute, at San Francisco State University, clearly indicate the profound impact that family reactions to an adolescent’s sexual orientation and gender identity and expression have on their health, mental health and well-being. Ryan found that when families are highly rejecting, LGBT youth are at far higher risk for major health and mental health problems as young adults (suicidal ideation and attempts, depression, substance abuse, risk for HIV and STDs), compared with young adults from families that were a little or not at all rejecting.

  - Family acceptance can have a positive impact on an LGBT young person’s health and mental health. But, perhaps Ryan’s most relevant findings are that parents and caregivers typically become more accepting over time and that the outcomes for youth with ambivalent families are significantly less severe, compared with youth from highly rejecting families. Ryan has also found that parents and caregivers can modify rejecting behavior and become more supportive when they understand how rejecting behavior dramatically increases their LGBT children’s risk for health problems. Through the Family Acceptance Project™, Ryan and her team are currently developing a new research-based family-related approach to prevention and care, that includes interventions to help maintain LGBT youth in their homes, to strengthen families and to promote permanency. The fact that families do not need to transform themselves in order to make room for their LGBT youth members has significant ramifications for child welfare providers. It suggests, for example, that we should wrap support services around families as their children come out with the goal of helping youth stay in their homes. It also suggests that permanency plans might continue to include birth families, even if the family is initially rejecting. (The Prevention Researcher. Volume 17(4). November, 2010)

- School based protective factors include:
  - The presence of supportive staff: Evidence suggests that LGBT youth who receive support not only survive – but thrive! (D’Augelli, 1992) In addition, harassment has been identified as a critical factor in predicting outcomes for youth. The greater the level of harassment a youth experiences, the greater the likelihood that s/he will engage in risky behaviors. (Bontempo & D’Augelli, 2002). The 2011 GLSEN Study noted that supportive staff contributed to a range of positive indicators including fewer reports of missing school, greater academic achievement, higher educational aspirations and a greater sense of belonging to their school community.

  - The existence of a Gay/Straight Alliance (GSA). A recent study on suicide ideation and attempts among sexual minority youth concluded that GSAs were a protective factor and, in fact, the presence of a GSA was the only factor of those they tested that was associated with lower odds of suicidality. (Walls, Freedenthal, Wineski, Social Work, A journal of the National Association of Social Workers, January, 2008, Vol. 53, Number 1). In addition, the GLSEN study referenced above also found that students in schools with a Gay-Straight Alliance reported hearing fewer homophobic remarks, experienced less harassment and assault because of their sexual orientation and gender expression, were more likely to report incidents of harassment and assault to school staff, were less likely to feel unsafe because of their sexual orientation or gender expression, were less likely to miss school because of safety concerns and reported a greater sense of belonging to their school community.

  - The existence of inclusive safe school policies: Students from a school with a safe school policy that included protections based on sexual orientation and/or gender identity/expression heard fewer homophobic remarks, experienced lower levels of victimization related to their sexual orientation, were more likely to report incidents of harassment and assault to school staff, were more likely to report that staff intervened when hearing homophobic remarks and were more likely to report incidents of harassment and assault to school staff.
What Is Sexual Orientation?

Sexual orientation refers to an enduring pattern of emotional, romantic, and/or sexual attractions to men, women, or both sexes. Sexual orientation also refers to a person’s sense of identity based on those attractions, related behaviors, and membership in a community of others who share those attractions. Research over several decades has demonstrated that sexual orientation ranges along a continuum, from exclusive attraction to the other sex to exclusive attraction to the same sex. However, sexual orientation is usually discussed in terms of three categories: heterosexual (having emotional, romantic, or sexual attractions to members of the other sex), gay/lesbian (having emotional, romantic, or sexual attractions to members of one’s own sex), and bisexual (having emotional, romantic, or sexual attractions to both men and women). This range of behaviors and attractions has been described in various cultures and nations throughout the world. Many cultures use identity labels to describe people who express these attractions. In the United States the most frequent labels are lesbians (women attracted to women), gay men (men attracted to men), and bisexual people (men or women attracted to both sexes). However, some people may use different labels or none at all. Sexual orientation is distinct from other components of sex and gender, including biological sex (the anatomical, physiological, and genetic characteristics associated with being male or female), gender identity (the psychological sense of being male or female),* and social gender role (the cultural norms that define feminine and masculine behavior).

How do people know if they are lesbian, gay, or bisexual?

According to current scientific and professional understanding, the core attractions that form the basis for adult sexual orientation typically emerge between middle childhood and early adolescence. These patterns of emotional, romantic, and sexual attraction may arise without any prior sexual experience. People can be celibate and still know their sexual orientation—be it lesbian, gay, bisexual, or heterosexual.

Different lesbian, gay, and bisexual people have very different experiences regarding their sexual orientation. Some people know that they are lesbian, gay, or bisexual for a long time before they actually pursue relationships with other people. Some people engage in sexual activity (with same-sex and/or other sex partners) before assigning a clear label to their sexual orientation. Prejudice and discrimination make it difficult for many people to come to terms with their sexual orientation identities, so claiming a lesbian, gay, or bisexual identity may be a slow process.

What Causes a Person To Have a Particular Sexual Orientation?

There is no consensus among scientists about the exact reasons that an individual develops a heterosexual, bisexual, gay, or lesbian orientation. Although much research has examined the possible genetic, hormonal, developmental, social, and cultural influences on sexual orientation, no findings have emerged that permit scientists to conclude that sexual orientation is determined by any particular factor or factors. Many think that nature and nurture both play complex roles; most people experience little or no sense of choice about their sexual orientation.

Is Homosexuality a Mental Disorder?

No, lesbian, gay, and bisexual orientations are not disorders. Research has found no inherent association between any of these sexual orientations and psychopathology. Both heterosexual behavior and homosexual behavior are normal aspects of human sexuality. Both have been documented in many different cultures and historical eras. Despite the persistence of stereotypes that portray lesbian, gay, and bisexual people as disturbed, several decades of research and clinical experience have led all mainstream medical and mental health organizations in this country to conclude that these orientations represent normal forms of human experience. Lesbian, gay, and bisexual relationships are normal forms of human bonding. Therefore, these mainstream organizations long ago abandoned classifications of homosexuality as a mental disorder.

Re-Considering Linear Models of Coming Out * **

- Coming out is a somewhat fluid, interactive, life-long process that is highly influenced by the norms and values of individual families, cultures and societies.
- Most of the various “stages” models imply a linear progression from one stage to the next. These models ignore the wide variations among individual experiences, may or may not be relevant to women’s, bisexual or transgender experience. They are often based on research with white, adult, middle class and male populations whose experiences may not generalize or reflect those of others.
- Lesbians appear to perceive affectional orientation and relationship dynamics as central to their self-definition as a sexual minority, while gay men appear to view sexual behavior and sexual fantasy as central to their identity. Some research also suggests a number of other differences between men and women’s sexuality. See Lisa Diamond below for more.
- Coming out varies widely from individual to individual. An individual’s gender, ethnicity, race, religion, and resources may have a profound impact on how he or she experiences his or her own identity, orientation, and self-definitions.
- Most identity development models assume single social identities (e.g. race, gender, orientation) which overlooks two important dynamics for LGB People Of Color: The visibility or invisibility of sexual identity and the salience of identity. Most models inappropriately co-mingle personal and group identification, implying that individuals can’t be fully integrated in their LGB identity unless they are completely open about their orientation with others. This perspective may underestimate the impact of coming out for LGB people of color who may be battling multiple oppressions without multiple support systems.
- Few coherent models of bisexual or transgender identity development exist.

Questions to Consider Before Coming Out

1) Are you comfortable about your sexual orientation or gender identity? If you feel confused or uncertain (which is normal, especially in the beginning of your exploration about who you are), reach out to people that you know will be supportive and affirming – people who won’t push you to label yourself, people who will give you room to think, question, wonder and explore – people who will give you time to figure it out, are neutral, or who don’t have an investment in the specific outcome (that is, someone who will support you regardless of your ultimate conclusion about your orientation or gender). Then, when you are ready, begin planning to come out to families and friends whose reaction feels less certain to you. Don’t raise the issues unless you are sure you are able to respond with confidence to the question “Are You Sure!!” Confusion on your part will increase your family or friends confusion and decrease their confidence in your judgment. If you are wrestling with guilt and periods of depression, you’ll be better off waiting to tell your family or friends. Coming out to them may require tremendous energy on your part. It may require a reserve of positive self image – and supportive allies and friends.

2) Do you have support? In the event your parent’s, family member’s or friend’s reaction devastates you, there should be an individual or a group that you can confidentially turn to for emotional support and strength. Maintaining your sense of self-worth is critical. Here are some places that are open in case you need support or help at any time: In Connecticut, call InfoLine at 211 – they have 24/7 emergency, hotline and crisis support and are open and affirming to LGBT issues. For crisis intervention, you can also call the Trevor Project Hotline at (800) 850-8078 (24 hour LGBT youth suicide prevention hotline) Most of all, be safe, and remember that the moment — whatever it is — passes. You just gotta hang on…

3) Are you knowledgeable about sexual orientation and gender identity? Your family or friends may respond based on a lifetime of information from a homophobic, bi-phobic, gender-phobic, queer-phobic society. Part of your job in coming out to yourself was to educate yourself – now part of your job may be to educate them. Are you prepared to do that? If not, reach out to organizations like Parents, Families and Friends of Lesbians and Gays (PFLAG). They have brochures made just for parents and family members that could really help.

4) Don’t assume you will know how somebody will respond – you may be pleasantly surprised by their response.

5) Timing counts! Realize that your family’s response during holidays may be different than they would be under other less hectic, stressful conditions. Are the holidays the best time or not? Think about your own family or friends and decide.

6) Remember that coming out is a continuous process – you may have to come out many times and in a variety of ways. Recognize that family or friends need time to acknowledge and accept that they have an LGBT child. It took you time to come to terms with who you are, now it is your family’s turn. Let your family’s judgment be theirs to work on, not yours to decide. It may be to educate them.

7) Have alternate plans if the situation becomes difficult at home. A school social worker or other helping professional may be able to help you develop a safety net. Also remember that if the situation turns violent, get out and get help from friends, police or DCF. The DCF Number to report abuse is: (800) 842-2288.

If you are coming home for a visit or a holiday and plan to come out then:

8) If you are bringing a partner home with you, don’t wait until the holiday evening to raise the issue of sleeping arrangements – make plans in advance. Also consider: “Would your parents let you share a room with an opposite sex partner?” If not, don’t expect the rules to be different just because your partner is same gender. Also, discuss in advance with your partner how you will talk about your relationship, how you will or won’t show affection with each other, etc.

9) Focus on common interests, remind and reassure family members that you are the same person you always were — they just know more about you.

10) Remember, most fundamentally, that you are loved, loving, and lovable – no matter how other people respond.

How comfortable are you?

Who will you turn to if your folks don’t respond as you hoped?

Can you answer their questions?

Timing counts!

You had time to learn to accept yourself – give your family some time too!

Things to plan in advance: sleeping arrangements, alternative places to stay, how much PDA if you bringing a significant other.
Respuestas a sus preguntas acerca de la orientación sexual y la homosexualidad

- ¿Qué es la orientación sexual?
  La orientación sexual es una duradera atracción emocional, romántica, sexual o afectiva hacia otra persona. Es fácilmente distinguible de otros componentes de la sexualidad, incluyendo el sexo biológico; la identidad de género (la sensación sociológica de ser hombre o mujer) y el rol social de género (la adherencia a las normas culturales del comportamiento masculino y femenino).

- ¿Cuál es la causa para que una persona tenga una orientación sexual en particular?
  Hay numerosas teorías acerca de los orígenes de la orientación sexual de una persona. Hoy en día la mayoría de los científicos está de acuerdo en que lo más probable es que resulta de una compleja interacción de factores ambientales, cognitivos y biológicos. En la mayor parte de la gente la orientación sexual se establece a una edad temprana. También hay considerables evidencias recientes que sugieren que la biología, incluyendo factores genéticos u hormonales innatos, juegan un papel significativo en la sexualidad de una persona.

- ¿Se elige la orientación sexual?
  No, los seres humanos no pueden elegir ser gays o héteros. La orientación sexual emerge para la mayor parte de la gente en la adolescencia temprana, sin ninguna experiencia previa. Aunque podemos elegir si actuamos conforme a nuestros sentimientos, los sicólogos no consideran que la orientación sexual sea una elección consciente que pueda ser cambiada voluntariamente.
¿Puede cambiarse la orientación sexual mediante terapia?
No. A pesar de que la mayoría de los homosexuales viven vidas exitosas y felices, alguna gente homosexual o bisexual puede buscar cambiar su orientación sexual mediante terapia, a veces presionados a intentarlo por influencia de miembros de la familia o de grupos religiosos. La realidad es que la homosexualidad no es una enfermedad. No requiere tratamiento y no es cambiable. Sin embargo no toda la gente gay, lesbiana y bisexual que busca asistencia de un profesional de la salud mental quiere cambiar su orientación sexual. La gente gay, lesbiana y bisexual puede buscar ayuda sicológica para el proceso de salir del closet o para lidiar con los prejuicios; pero la mayor parte va a terapia por las mismas razones y circunstancias de la vida que traen a la gente hétero hacia los profesionales de la salud mental.

Algunos terapeutas que realizan las llamadas terapias de conversión informan que han sido capaces de cambiar la orientación sexual de sus clientes, de homosexual a heterosexual. El escrutinio cuidadoso, sin embargo, muestra varios factores que ponen en duda sus afirmaciones. Por ejemplo, muchos de los informes provienen de organizaciones con una perspectiva ideológica que condena la homosexualidad. Además, sus alegatos están pobremente documentados. Por ejemplo, al concluir el tratamiento no hay un seguimiento ni se informa qué sucede durante un periodo largo, como sería lo estándar en cualquier intervención de salud mental. A la Asociación Americana de Sicolología le preocupa tales terapias y el daño potencial a los pacientes. En 1997, el Consejo de Representantes de la Asociación aprobó una resolución reafirmando la oposición al tratamiento homofóbico, y expresando el derecho del cliente a un tratamiento imparcial y a la autodeterminación. Cualquier persona que entra a terapia para tratar cuestiones de orientación sexual tiene el derecho de esperar que tal terapia tenga lugar en un ambiente profesional neutral, en ausencia de cualquier prejuicio social.

¿Es la homosexualidad una enfermedad mental o un problema emocional?
No. Los sicólogos, psiquiatras y otros profesionales de la salud mental están de acuerdo con que la homosexualidad no es una enfermedad, un desorden mental, ni un problema emocional. Más de 35 años de investigación científica objetiva, bien diseñada, ha demostrado que la homosexualidad, en sí misma, no está asociada con desórdenes mentales ni con problemas emocionales o sociales. Alguna vez se pensó que la homosexualidad era una enfermedad mental porque la sociedad y los profesionales de la salud mental tenían información prejuiciada.

En el pasado, los estudios sobre gente gay, lesbiana y bisexual incluía a pacientes en terapia, con lo cual se distorsiona el resultado. Cuando los investigadores examinaron los datos de personas que no estaban en terapia, rápidamente se dieron cuenta de que era falsa la idea que la homosexualidad era una enfermedad mental.

En 1973 la Asociación America de Siquiatría confirmó la importancia de nuevas investigaciones mejor diseñadas y eliminó a la homosexualidad del manual que enumera los desórdenes mentales y emocionales. Dos años después, la Asociación Americana de Sicología aprobó una resolución que respaldaba esa remoción.

Por más de 25 años, ambas asociaciones han exhortado a todos los profesionales de la salud mental a que ayuden a disipar el estigma de enfermedad mental que alguna gente todavía asocia con la orientación homosexual.

¿Pueden ser buenos padres los hombres gays, las lesbianas y los bisexuales?
Sí. Los estudios que comparan grupos de niños educados por padres homosexuales y por padres heterosexuales no han hallado diferencia en el desarrollo entre los dos grupos de niños en cuatro áreas críticas: su inteligencia, ajuste sicológico, ajuste social y popularidad con sus amigos. También es importante darse cuenta que la orientación sexual del padre no indica la de sus hijos. Otro mito acerca de la homosexualidad es la creencia equivocada que los hombres gays tienen mayor tendencia a abusar sexualmente a los niños que los hombres heterosexuales. No hay evidencia que sugiera que hay más homosexuales que heterosexuales que abusen a los niños.

¿Por qué los gays, las lesbianas y los bisexuales revelan su orientación sexual?
Porque el compartir con otros ese aspecto de sí mismos es importante para su salud mental. En efecto, se ha descubierto que el proceso del desarrollo de la identidad para las lesbianas, los gays y los bisexuales, llamado "salir del closet", está fuertemente relacionado con el ajuste sicológico mientras más positiva sea la identidad gay, lesbiana o bisexual, mejor será su salud mental y más alta será su autoestima.
¿Por qué es difícil el proceso de “salir del closet” para alguna gente gay, lesbiana y bisexual?
Para alguna gente gay y bisexual el proceso de salir del closet es difícil, para otros no lo es. Frecuentemente la gente lesbiana, gay y bisexual siente temor, se siente diferente y sola cuando por primera vez se da cuenta que su orientación sexual es diferente a la norma de la comunidad. Esto es particularmente cierto para la gente que se da cuenta de su orientación gay, lesbiana o bisexual siendo niño o adolescente, lo cual no es poco común. Dependiendo de sus familias y de dónde viven, pueden tener que luchar contra prejuicios y desinformación acerca de la homosexualidad.

Niños y adolescentes pueden ser particularmente vulnerables a los efectos nocivos de prejuicios y estereotipos. También pueden tener el ser rechazados por su familia, amigos, compañeros de trabajo e instituciones religiosas. Alguna gente gay tiene que preocuparse de no perder su trabajo, o ser hostigado en la escuela, si se conoce su orientación sexual.

Lamentablemente la gente gay, lesbiana y bisexual tienen un mayor riesgo que los heterosexuales de sufrir asaltos físicos y violencia. Estudios realizados en California a mediados de los años noventa mostraron que casi la quinta parte de las lesbianas que participaron en el estudio, y más de la cuarta parte de los hombres gays que participaron, habían sido víctimas de algún crimen por odio, basado en su orientación sexual. En otro estudio realizado en California con aproximadamente 500 adultos jóvenes, la mitad de todos los hombres jóvenes participantes admitieron haber sido víctimas de alguna forma de agresión anti-gay, desde insultos hasta violencia física.

¿Qué se puede hacer para ayudar a gays y lesbianas en la lucha contra los prejuicios y la discriminación hacia ellos?
La investigación ha encontrado que la gente que tiene las actitudes más positivas hacia los gays, las lesbianas y los bisexuales, es aquella que dice conocer bien a una o más personas gays -- frecuentemente como amigos/as o compañeros/as de trabajo. Por esta razón, los sicólogos creen que las actitudes negativas hacia la gente gay, como grupo, no tienen su fundamento en experiencias reales, sino que se basan en estereotipos y prejuicios. Además, la protección contra la discriminación y la violencia es muy importante, tal como lo es para cualquier otro grupo minoritario. Algunos estados incluyen la violencia contra un individuo por su orientación sexual como un “crimen por odio”, y diez estados de EE.UU. tienen leyes contra la discriminación basada en la orientación sexual.

¿Por qué motivo es importante que la sociedad esté mejor educada acerca de la homosexualidad?
El educar a toda la gente acerca de la orientación sexual y la homosexualidad es probable que disminuya el prejuicio anti-gay. La información precisa acerca de la homosexualidad es especialmente importante para la gente joven que está descubriendo y buscando entender por primera vez su sexualidad -- ya sea ésta homosexual, bisexual o heterosexual. No tienen validez los temores de que tal información hará gay a más gente -- la información acerca de la homosexualidad no hace a nadie gay o hétéro.

¿Están infectados de VIH todos los hombres gays y bisexuales?
No. Este es un mito frecuente. En realidad, el riesgo de quedar expuesto al VIH está relacionado con el comportamiento de la persona, no con su orientación sexual. Lo que es importante recordar acerca del VIH/SIDA es que es una enfermedad evitable mediante el uso de prácticas de sexo seguro y no utilizando drogas.

DEFINICIONES

Bisexual – (hombre o mujer) Una persona que siente atracción afectiva y sexual tanto hacia hombres como hacia mujeres.

Bisexual no asumido – (The Down Low or DL) Se refiere a hombres bisexuales no asumidos que tienen sexo con hombres sin el conocimiento de su pareja mujer.

Enamorados del mismo género – Un término utilizado desde principios de los años 90 para denominar a mujeres de color que aman a mujeres y hombres de color que aman a hombres como una forma de identificar este tipo de vida en la cultura afroamericana. Si bien muchos hombres gays y mujeres bisexuales de color prefieren ser identificados simplemente como gays y lesbianas, muchos otros prefieren la denominación de Afrocentricos SGL o Enamorados del mismo Género (del inglés Same Gender Loving). Al respecto, antes de referirse a ellos lo mejor es no asumir y preguntar la preferencia de cada persona.

Gay - Un hombre que siente atracción afectiva y sexual hacia otros hombres. “Gay” a veces se usa también para mujeres.

Género “Queer” o Raro – (genderqueer) Término usado para crear palabras que identifiquen a hombres/mujeres de género no tradicional. Se puede incluir otros términos despectivos en un proceso de “recuperación y desafío” (“boy-dykes”, “bio-girlz”, “trannie-boys”, “trykes”, “Riotgirl”, etc.).

Heterosexual - La creencia institucionalizada que todos son heterosexuales o deberían serlo y que la heterosexualidad es intrínsecamente superior y preferible a la homosexualidad y bisexualidad.

Heterosexual - Hombre o mujer que siente atracción afectiva y sexual hacia personas del sexo opuesto. A veces se los llama “heteros”.

Homofobia - El odio o miedo irracional, la aversión o discriminación contra los homosexuales. Similar al racismo: por ejemplo discriminación que sufren los latinos en Estados Unidos.

Homofobia internalizada - Experimentar vergüenza, aversión u odio contra uno mismo como reacción al sentimiento de sentirse atraído hacia personas de su mismo sexo.

Homosexual - Siente atracción instintiva, afectiva y sexual, hacia personas del mismo sexo. (Gay: hombre hacia hombres, lesbiana: mujeres hacia mujeres).

Identidad de género - Nuestro sentido interior de género de ser hombre o mujer, bisexual, transgénero, transexual, etc.

Intersexual - Una persona intersexual es alguien que ha nacido con los cromosomas que definen el sexo, los genitales externos (ambiguos), o los órganos reproductores internos, considerados no “estándar”, sea para hombre o mujer (reemplaza la palabra fuera de uso “hermafrodita”).

Lesbiana – Mujer que siente atracción instintiva, afectiva y sexual, hacia otras mujeres.

Minorías sexuales - gays, lesbianas, bisexuales, transexuales y transgéneros. (5 al 15% de la población dependiendo del estudio que se prefiera).

“Mujerista” – Un término puesto en uso por la autora Alice Walker para describir a la mujer de color que está comprometida con el tema de la opresión a otras mujeres. Este término se utiliza también para las mujeres de color que se han sentido relegadas por el movimiento “feminista”, por racismo o discriminación institucionalizados.

Orientación sexual - La atracción instintiva, afectiva y sexual, que se siente hacia otras personas. Personas del mismo sexo (lesbiana, gays), del sexo opuesto (heterosexuales) o de ambos sexos (bisexuales). Se hace notar que estas definiciones no son categóricas y pueden ser modificadas con el tiempo, en suma a aquellos que rechazan la dualidad de género se los puede identificar como “pansexuales” o usar otros términos.

Pansexual – Persona que manifiesta su sexualidad en formas variadas, con objetos y expresiones diversos. El/la que manifiesta muchas formas de expresión sexual.

Transgénero - Un término muy amplio, utilizado para describir a una serie de personas cuya identidad y expresión de género, en diferentes grados, no corresponde al de su sexo genético.

A pesar que la edad promedio en que la juventud gay sale del closet, ante ellos mismos y ante los demás sigue disminuyendo, un porcentaje significativo de jóvenes sale del closet durante su primer o segundo año de universidad. Muchos están pensando salir de él ante sus familias durante las vacaciones de invierno. Inclusive jóvenes que ya salieron del closet en la secundaria descubren que ahora han salido del mismo de una manera “diferente” – tal vez de una manera más abierta o con una pareja nueva. En cualquier caso, esto puede ser realmente estresante. Así que, de ahora en adelante, nuestra nueva tradición para el invierno será enviar nuestros “tips para salir del closet” como algo sobre lo cual deberían meditar.

Article II.  Preguntas que debes Considerar Antes de Salir del Closet

1. ¿Te sientes seguro de tu orientación sexual o identidad de género? Si te sientes confundido o inseguro (lo cual es completamente normal, sobre todo al comienzo de la exploración de tu identidad), busca primera personas que sabes que te apoyarán y te reforzarán la confianza en ti mismo y habla con ellas – gente que no te presionará para que te etiquetes, gente que te dará el espacio para pensar, cuestionar, preguntar y explorar – gente que te dará el tiempo para entenderlo. Después, cuando estés listo, empieza a planear salir del closet ante tus familiares y amigos cuyas reacciones te sean menos predecibles. Nunca saques a relucir el tema a menos que estés seguro que vas a poder responder con toda confianza la pregunta “¿estás seguro?” La confusión de parte tuya únicamente aumentará la confusión de tus familiares y amigos y disminuirá su confianza en tu juicio.

2. ¿Te sientes cómodo con tu sexualidad y/o identidad de género? Si estás lidiando con culpa y períodos de depresión, es mejor que retardes la decisión de salir del closet ante tu familia o amigos. Salir del closet requiere de mucha energía por parte tuya; va a requerir de una reserva de sentimientos positivos hacia uno mismo – y de aliados y amigos comprensivos.

3. ¿Cuentas con apoyo? En caso que la reacción de tus padres, familiares o amigos te deje desconsolado, deberías tener una persona o un grupo de confianza donde puedas acudir en busca de apoyo emocional y de seguridad. Es sumamente importante mantener tu autoestima. A continuación te damos algunos sitios a los que puedes acudir en caso que llegues a necesitar ayuda: en Connecticut llama a InfoLine al 211 – ellos atienden emergencias 24/7 y la línea de ayuda y de apoyo en caso de crisis recibe llamadas sobre temas LGBT. Otro lugar que también puedes llamar en caso de crisis es al Trevor Project Hotline al 1-800-850-8078 (línea de ayuda telefónica para la prevención del suicidio de jóvenes LGBT). Sin embargo, lo más importante que debes recordar, es que el momento – cualquiera que sea la reacción – pasa. Solamente tienes que conseguir sobrellevar ese momento.

4. ¿Posees conocimientos sobre orientación sexual e identidad de género? Tus familiares o amigos pudieran reaccionar en base a una larga información obtenida de una sociedad homófoba, bi-fóbica y género-fóbica. Parte de tu trabajo al salir del closet ante ti debería ser educarte – ahora parte de tu trabajo será educарlos. ¿Estás preparado para hacer eso? Si la respuesta es no, ponte en contacto con organizaciones como Parents, Families and Friends of Lesbians and Gays (PFLAG). ¡Ellos cuentan con folletos especialmente diseñados para padres y familiares que realmente pueden ser de gran ayuda!

Más tips, secretitos y consideraciones para antes de salir del closet:

5. Nunca asumas que sabes o puedes predecir la reacción de una persona – puede que te lleves una sorpresa agradable por su reacción de apoyo.

6. ¡El momento sí cuenta! Considera que la respuesta de tus familiares si se los dices durante las fiestas de fin de año, podría ser diferente que si se los dices en otra época no tan llena de diferentes quehaceres y menos llenos de stress. ¿Podría ser diferente si tocaras el tema en otras circunstancias menos importantes? ¿Esta es la época más apropiada para hacerlo? Piensa sobre ello tomando en cuenta a tu familia y amigos y toma una decisión.

7. Recuerda que salir del closet es un proceso constante – es probable que tengas que salir del closet muchas veces y de diferentes maneras.

8. Reconoce que tus familiares y amigos necesitan tiempo para admitir y aceptar que tienen un hijo LGBT. Tú necesitaste tiempo para aceptarte como eres. Ahora le toca el turno a tu familia.

9. Deja que la opinión de tus familiares sea algo que ellos resuelvan, no es algo que tu tienes que asumir, mientras que sean amables contigo.
10. Ten planes alternativos en caso que las cosas se pongan difíciles en tu casa. Un trabajador social del colegio o algún otro profesional pudieran ayudarte a establecer un muro de seguridad. También recuerda que si la situación se pone violenta, debes salir inmediatamente de la casa y conseguir ayuda de amigos, la policía o la DCF. El número de la DCF para reportar abusos es 1-800-842-2288.

Si estás yendo a casa de visita o de vacaciones y planeas salir del closet durante tu estadía:

11. Lee nuevamente #6 y #10 arriba.
12. Si estás llevando tu pareja a tu casa, no esperes hasta la noche de fiesta para hacer los arreglos de alojamiento – plantea por adelantado. También considera esto: “¿Tus padres te permitirán compartir un cuarto con una persona del sexo opuesto?” Si la respuesta es no, no esperes que las reglas sean diferentes simplemente porque tu compañero sea un...
13. De igual manera discute con tu compañero la manera en que van a hablar de su relación, si se van a hacer demostraciones de afecto en público, etc.
14. Enfócate en intereses comunes, recuérdale y confírmale a tu familia que eres la misma persona de siempre – solamente que ahora saben algo más de ti.
15. Se prudente acerca del deseo de querer escandalizar a tu familia. Ten mucho cuidado – No lo hagas.
16. Recuerda ser firme en cuanto a quererte y respetarte como persona y por quien eres. Recuerda que eres un regalo para el mundo. ¡Recuerda que el mundo sería un lugar menos especial sin la contribución que tú le aportas! Lo más fundamental, recuerda que eres muy querido, que eres cariñoso y que eres digno de ser amado.

Imagine...

For about the cost of a single specialty drink each month, you could give a kid a scholarship to the True Colors conference ...

My younger sister came out to me and a few of her friends, and she gets made fun of and judged when she's seen with her girlfriend. I feel like going to True Colors would show her that I support her and I will always be there for her, no matter what.

True Colors to me means a place of love, a place of hope, happiness, enlightenment, friendship, courage, and every aspect of humanity that is nothing but good.

When I went to True Colors last year it was one of the best experiences of my life. I met so many amazing people, and felt totally accepted for who I am and comfortable in my own skin. It was great to be surrounded by love and not feel judged.

STONEMWALL SPEAKERS

Passion Respect Knowledge Cooperation Commitment to Change

Stonewall Speakers is an all-volunteer speaker's bureau comprised of LGBTQ+ individuals. Our mission is to increase understanding, acceptance and respect for lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender people through educational outreach. Speaking engagements combine personal life stories with a question and answer session.

Stonewall Speakers was founded in 1988 after the brutal murder of a Walthersfield man, by two high school boys, because the man was gay. The needless loss of life motivated our founders to create a program with the intention of reducing violence and hate; and instead promote understanding and acceptance.

We speak to thousands of youth and adults annually, including High Schools & Junior Highs, Colleges & Universities, Teachers' Groups, Religious Groups, Police Departments, Medical Professionals, Mental Health Professionals, Peer Counselors, Civic Groups and Radio and Television Audiences.

WE WOULD LOVE TO SPEAK TO YOUR GROUP!
